Golden Triangle Storage Project Construction Back to Full Strength, AGL Resource Contributes to Hurricane Recovery Efforts

BEAUMONT, Oct. 2, 2008 –Golden Triangle Storage, Inc., an AGL Resources [NYSE: ATG] company, reports that with electricity restored at the site of its natural gas storage project on the Spindletop salt dome in southern Beaumont on Sept. 26, full construction is back underway this week.

Crews suspended operations as Hurricane Ike approached and its passage damaged trailers and other equipment at the site. The drilling rigs preparing the storage cavern and associated brine disposal well resumed operation Sept. 16 and 18, respectively, running off of generator power. Most site repairs have been made and full construction resumed this week. The project doesn't expect Ike to cause significant delays in overall completion.

All project personnel and contractors came through the hurricane safely.

AGL Resources Private Foundation is donating $10,000 to the Red Cross to help with hurricane relief.

“We admire Southeast Texas’ pull-up-your-boot-straps-and-get-back-to-work attitude, even in the face of massive hurricane damage,” said Dana Grams, president of Pivotal Development, the AGL Resources unit that oversees Golden Triangle Storage. “We want to do our part to make it easier for our neighbors to do just that.”
